1973 Sewage Treatment Deadline Prompts City Meeting on Engineers

Efforts to obtain state or federal funds, or possibly both, for planning work on a $7.5 million program to build a secondary sewage treatment plant and a system of interceptor sewers in Granite City have been initiated in a move to speed up all phases of the program, it was reported today.

In still another step to get the program moving, Mayor Donald Partney said he will meet soon, possibly within the next week, with the city council's Pollution Control Committee, to discuss selection of an engineering firm to handle engineering and planning details of the sewer plan.

Cost of the secondary sewage treatment plant, which would be built adjacent to the city's present treatment facilities, has been estimated at $4 million. Construction of interceptor sewers would cost about $3.5 million under present plans, according to Partney.

Full speed ahead for the sewer program has been indicated, the mayor added, by the ruling last week by the Illinois Pollution Control Board advancing by two years the deadline date for completion of secondary sewage treatment facilities in Granite City. The Pollution Control Board, in a meeting at Southern Illinois University - Southern last week, moved the deadline to Dec. 31, 1973.

Deadlines Advanced

In considering a secondary sewage treatment requirements, state and federal pollution control authorities previously were considering deadlines from 1973 to 1982 depending upon location along the Mississippi River. Officials indicated deadlines will be advanced in virtually all cases to speed up construction of needed treatment facilities.

Partney said today that Granite City will have to press with all speed to meet the deadline, which now leaves a little less than three years for a vast volume of detail work.

Tasks include financing, engineering, planning, compliance with federal and state requirements and the actual building work itself.

Plans for the secondary treatment program were announced last month by Mayor Partney who said he has met with state and federal officials concerning the potential of fund grants to

Ogilvie Unhappy But Chancellor Wants to Stay

By HARRY BARNES

Press-Record Staff Writer

Dr. John S. Rendleman gave a spirited defense of his role as executor of the estate of the late Secretary of State Paul Powell Saturday, saying he has no intention of resigning as chancellor of Southern Illinois University-Southwestern.

Rendleman, flanked by his three attorneys, spoke at a press conference in which he said he is unable to understand why public criticism of the $800,000 cash hoard found in Powell's belongings "is now being directed not at Mr. Powell, but at the executor of his estate, a man who had nothing whatsoever to do with the money or with Mr. Powell's political activities."

DR. JOHN RENDLEMAN

He said he was surprised, but not angry, at criticisms directed at him by Governor Richard B. Ogilvie, but that he did not intend the governor's statement on Friday as a request to resign.

In response to questions, Rendleman said he started promptly at 10:30 a.m. on Oct. 13, 1969, at the discovery of the dates on which items of Powell's estate were found and placed in safekeeping. Ogilvie said he first notified Illinois Attorney General William J. Donovan of the discovery of the $800,000 cache in Powell's apartment at Springfield on Nov. 7.

He pointed out the local community primarily was selected for the EOIST program due to close cooperation between civil defense personnel and municipal officers.

Discussing the actual exercise, scheduled to start promptly at 1 p.m. Thursday, Dr. Rendleman told those gathered in the operations room at the building, 141 Nineteenth St., "In any disaster, it is essential the heads of municipal departments, city officers and directors of disaster assistance agencies assemble in one area and are protected."

Other attorneys with Rendleman at the press conference Saturday morning were James Gorman, president of the Madison County Bar Association who defended Rendleman's handling of the estate and Joseph Lowery of East St. Louis. Gorman said there was nothing wrong with Rendleman's acceptance of the appointment as executor or his handling of the estate. With reference to Gov. Ogilvie's criticism, Gorman said "Responsible public officials should not comment until all the facts are in."

One reporter asked Gorman if he were aware that Ogilvie also is an attorney.

"Yes," Gorman replied. "That's why I'm so concerned. I don't think any responsible person, let alone an attorney, could charge that he (Rendleman) has acted irresponsibly in the fulfillment of his duties."

Rendleman said that had he known large amounts of cash were to become involved in the estate "I would not have accepted the appointment (as executor)."

The chancellor said that he

Highway Fund Freeze Will Remain Thawed

A threatened reinstatement of the federal freeze on highway funds in Madison and St. Clair counties was averted Friday by a ruling of Robert Kroest, district Illinois highway engineer, that most jobs now underway in the two counties are in compliance with hiring guidelines.

The possibility of a shutdown of six major projects involving total cost of $7.2 million in the bi-county area developed last week when Kroest said the jobs apparently failed to comply with the hiring plan for training Negroes for construction jobs.

A minimum of one trainee for each four journeymen within each craft on each job, or a ratio of one to four, is specified under the plan which was accepted by contractors, unions and representatives of minority groups as a means of ending a two-year freeze in highway funds. The freeze ended last June.

State highway engineers made a check of 15 jobs in the two counties Friday, followed by Kroest's announcement that most of them were in compliance, although several were on the borderline. He said these would be referred to the Illinois Division of Highways at Springfield for review.

The district engineer's announcement was followed, however, by a threat of possible legal action by an ad hoc labor council, the Metro East Labor Council, which is interested in placing more minority workers in construction jobs.

Edward Welch, attorney for the council, declined to specify the type of action planned, but said the labor council "simply wants to get what the Ogilvie plan calls for."

This was in reference to the hiring guideline procedure and training program which was devised by Illinois Governor Richard B. Ogilvie as the means of ending the fund freeze.

City Ready for Drill Thursday on Response To Possible Disaster

By VALERIE EVENDEN

Press-Record Staff Writer

More than 60 individuals not be conducted, as key participants include the community's public services heads, such as the police and fire chiefs, Victor H. Koenig, GC Quad-City area will embark Thursday on a simulated training exercise geared to a hypothetical but realistic emergency situation.

The Emergency Operations Simulation Training (EOIST) exercise will be conducted here under the auspices of the Department of the Army, the Office of Civil Defense, Region 4, the Illinois Civil Defense Agency, the Salvation Army and Red Cross. "Without the sanction of Mayor Donald Partney, the EOIST could not be staged here," Koenig added.

He pointed out the local community primarily was selected for the EOIST program due to close cooperation between civil defense personnel and municipal officers.

Discussing the actual exercise, scheduled to start promptly at 1 p.m. Thursday, Dr. Rendleman told those gathered in the operations room at the building, 141 Nineteenth St., "In any disaster, it is essential the heads of municipal departments, city officers and directors of disaster assistance agencies assemble in one area and are protected."

Directing the full scale training operation are Dr. John P. Liguori, Dr. Thomas C. Kennerty and J. Russell Morris of the University of Illinois, and William L. Eusele, Southwest Illinois Mutual Aid Area Coordinator.

Preparations for the EOIST have taken place here during the past six weeks with the U. of I. consultants meeting with local government officials, health-care agency directors, municipal department heads and civil defense staff members to design the framework for the exercise around the personnel and resources available in Granite City. Dr. Kennerty explained last week.

Without the full cooperation of the city's top government officials, an EOIST exercise cannot be conducted, as key participants include the community's public services heads, such as the police and fire chiefs, Victor H. Koenig, GC Quad-City area will embark Thursday on a simulated training exercise geared to a hypothetical but realistic emergency situation.

Action on the motion will mean that members of the five-man state board will be ruling, in effect, upon its own existence. If Lawton refuses to dismiss the case, a full-scale hearing is expected to be scheduled within 30 to 60 days.

Need Full Cooperation

Without the full cooperation of the city's top government officials, an EOIST exercise cannot be conducted, as key participants include the community's public services heads, such as the police and fire chiefs, Victor H. Governor Asks U. S. Take New Look at Depot Closing

The governors letter to Laird: "On March 5 it was announced that the Granite City Army Depot in Granite City, Illinois would be closed and surplus property disposed of."

I am writing you to urge that a more in-depth analysis and reconsideration of the issues be made before a final decision is reached on the Depot.

"My concern reflects not only a review of the past and possible future contributions to the national defense that the Army Depot installation has made, but also a particular concern over the immediate economic hardship that the closure would bring to Depot employees and the surrounding communities."

"The installation is within close proximity of the confluence of the Illinois, Missouri, and Mississippi Rivers permitting direct water access to the Depot."

Ogilvie said in the letter that his office has received more than 15,000 petitions urging that the action be reconsidered.

Steel Firm Requests Dismissal of Charges

Dismissal of state charges that Granite City Steel Co. contributed to excessive air pollution is sought in a motion filed by the steel firm Thursday with the Illinois Pollution Control Board—alleging that legislation creating the state board and the Environmental Protection Agency is unconstitutional.

As a result, representatives of Granite City Steel Co. are to meet in Chicago Feb. 1 with the Environmental Protection Agency for a second conference on the complaint charging the company with air pollution and asking penalties that could range from $400,000 to as high as $2.5 million under maximum assessments allowed by law.

The motion to dismiss the complaint was filed by the steel company's attorneys with the state board Thursday during a conference in the city hall where concerning evidence is being introduced later when the case is heard. An attorney for the firm said the motion challenges the power and authority of the Illinois Pollution Control Board and the constitutionality of the statute itself.

Ruling in February

Samuel Lawton Jr., hearing officer for the state air board, is expected to rule on the motion before mid-February since steel firm attorneys have until Jan. 23 to file briefs on their dismissal motion and the EPA has another 14 days to file an answer.

The charges against Granite City Steel Co. were filed Nov. 8 in the first major control action taken by the new Environmental Protection Agency since it went into operation last July 1. The bill alleged the steel firm has been violating clean air laws since Jan. 1967.

The steel company's dismissal motion attacks the air board's complaints on several grounds, including the state's "sweeping and overbroad" definition of air pollution. The motion said the standards of guilt are left up to the Pollution Control Board and therefore abridge the right of any firm or person to due process of law.

The two-bedroom mobile home, owned by Donald Connor, 202 McCambridge Ave., Madison, was burglarized twice in recent months. Mrs. Connor said that furniture was stolen and a heating unit ripped out and removed by thieves. Neighbors reported seeing juveniles near the trailer shortly before the fire was spotted, firemen noted.

had the approval of the board of trustees of SIU before he accepted the appointment. "Much of what follows has been said before. However, there needs to be complete understanding of my role as executor of Paul Powell's Estate. Paul Powell asked me to be the executor for his estate several years ago. I had come to know Mr. Powell fairly well through appearances in Springfield as a representative of Southern Illinois University, and had previously handled the settlement of the estate of Mr. Powell's late wife.

"The duties of an executor are to see that the estate is preserved intact until the will can be carried out in accordance with the wishes of the deceased. The executor does not act on his own impulses but must follow specific instructions set forth in the law.

"I have been criticized for my handling of the more than $800,000 which I found in Mr. Powell's apartment in the St. Nicholas Hotel in Springfield on Oct. 13. I have acted every step of the way in full accordance with the responsibilities of an executor for his estate as those responsibilities were interpreted by my lawyers, Robert Ostby and Joseph Lowery and A. D. Van Meter, the banker in Springfield who opened his bank after it had been closed for the day to deposit the money in a vault.

"I have no idea where the cash came from, how it was accumulated, or what purpose Mr. Powell had in mind. "At the time when I discovered this money, I realize that there might well be substantial tax and other liabilities involved. I also realized that my primary responsibility was to first make sure that Mr. Powell's estate was not diminished while in my care and that the right of the various heirs were protected.

"My duties as Chancellor of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville require a great deal of time. I accepted the position of executor for Mr. Powell's estate because he had, over the years, been a staunch and loyal supporter of Southern Illinois University and he requested me to do so.

"This is not a matter of taking a day to go to Chicago and another day to go to Vienna. As a matter of fact, I made three separate inspections of the house in Vienna before I was the gold splendor. And, as he gives you his promise, Orange Blossom gives you the promise of Orange Blossom will replace it without charge. Now you have two promises. Amore by Orange Blossom.

and I should not divulge my discovery. "I have been criticized for withholding this information in the weeks immediately before the last general election. However, I had no option. My obligation was to make a thorough, honest accounting and inventory of the Powell estate. I would have weakened my ability to meet that obligation if I had publicized the fact of the $800,000 prematurely in order to avoid subsequent criticism.

"I suggest my critics put themselves in my position faced with the problems created by the $800,000 in cash and ask themselves if they would have handled it any differently. I do not think they would have. "It has also been suggested that I handicapped the subsequent investigation of the source of these funds by not notifying the investigating and tax collecting authorities at once. I have no intention of resigning my position as Chancellor of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville."

ICC Suspends Phone Rate Boost; To Hold Hearings

By JIM MEES
 Press-Record
 Springfield Correspondent

The Illinois Commerce Commission suspended Friday proposed rate increases by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. assuring full-scale hearings on the rate increase petition filed by the utility Dec. 18. The proposed increase sought by the company would produce additional revenue of approximately $2.2 million per year. If granted, the proposed increases would affect virtually all categories of phone service in the Quad-City area. Rate boosts in Granite City and the adjacent area, on the basis of the ICC petition, would include the following:
 One-party flat rate business line, $16.50 to $19 per month; one-party, measured business line $7.50 to $9.60 per month; semi-public service, an additional 5 to 6 cents per message plus a $7.60 monthly flat rate.

Branch Rate Increases
 Private branch exchanges (flat rate trunk) $24.75 to $28.50 per month; (measured trunks) in two categories: $12 to $13.50 per month with additional 5 cents per message and $12 line rate assessment of $2.50 raised to $3.50 with additional 5 cents per message.

One party, flat rate residential, $5.50 to $6.60 per month; two-party flat rate residential, $4.75 to $5.40; two-party measured line, $3.25 to $3.75. The St. Louis same rate paid by Quad-City subscribers would be increased: One-party flat rate business, $25.25 to $27.75 per month; private line, business, $31.25 to $35 and one-party flat rate residential, $9 to $10.10.

Explorers Tour Prison-Note: 'That's Not For Me'

by WALTER STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer

"It's not for me," commented Terry Toth, president of Explorer Post 10-4, as 18 Quad-City Explorers got into their cars to return home—after a day in prison.

Accompanied by Chief of Police Frank Dutko of Madison, Don Bridick, Madison police officer, and Walter "Mick" Strange, the Explorers toured the Illinois State Penitentiary at Pontiac last week to view first hand the internal operations of a penal institution.

It was a busy day of signing admission rosters, being searched, passing through electronic metal detectors and touring different sections of the prison with prison guards as escorts.

Upon entering the front gate house, the Explorers and their adult companions were required to "sign in" and leave all their personal belongings. The youths then passed through the first metal detector and lined up under direction of three guards.

Line Up in Pairs

Lining up in pairs, a head count was made and checked against the sign-in roster; when the Sergeant at the gate house gave his approval the guards started the group to the administration building a half block away.

Two security doors were unlocked for the group to enter the lobby of the administration building, where they were met by Assistant Warden Don Harvey.

Four more heavily-barred doors and head counts took the group inside the prison. Pontiac is one of the most modern correctional institutions in the country with several programs designed to make the inmates constructive citizens when they return to society.

Handling younger inmates, basically from 18 to 25, Pontiac has 1,200 prisoners.

Warden Harvey is the first Negro Warden in the prison's history and he has done much to ease racial tensions behind the wall.

There are approximately 800 Negroes and 400 white prisoners, Warden Harvey said. "One of the problems here is that we have militants who just aren't mature enough to use good sense, and it frequently takes them a long time to get themselves together after they get here."

While visiting the cell blocks, it was noted that the new ones are only two tiers high. The old ones were eight and ten tiers high.

Each prisoner has his own small cell in which he spends at least 12 hours a day, seven days a week, for several years.

The cells have a bunk, a place for clothes and head phones on which the prisoners may receive one of three radio stations.

May Earn School Credits

While in prison, a man may earn credit for schooling from the first grade through two years of college. Inmates are used as teachers in many cases.

Trades such as auto mechanics, television and radio repair, plumbing, cooking, baking, carpentry are all taught by professional craftsmen.

The teen-age Explorers had a taste of prison food and were surprised to find that it was better than they had expected. The lunch included hamburger, french fries and cole slaw, with ice cream for dessert.

According to Warden Harvey, "More prison riots are started because of poor food than any other reason. The food here is not fancy, but we try to make it taste good and have sufficient quantity. Most of our vegetables and meats are raised on our prison farm."

Following the luncheon the Explorers gathered in the Warden's private office where Harvey answered questions for more than an hour.

Harvey pointed out, "We are getting more and more of the middle and upper class young men sent here on drug charges. They think they are being heavy with it on the outside, with their grass and pep pills, and then they get busted. The next thing this kid finds out is that he is stuck here for eight to ten years; and for what? A few hours of kicks and he spends thousands of hours in a cell."

Discusses Other Problems

The Warden discussed other problems of prison in regard to sex, spending money, letters, visits, isolation, prison discipline, riots, escapes and personnel problems.

Explorer post 10-4 is a Law enforcement specialty post and is studying all phases of law enforcement and related areas such as correction.

The post is sponsored by the Madison Police Department and Lions club and meets the second and fourth Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. at Madison Police Headquarters.

Any Quad-City teenager who is in high school and interested in law enforcement is welcome to visit the post meeting.

Grand Jury Returns 6 Indictments, 2 Here

Two area defendants were among those named in six indictments returned by the Madison County Grand Jury Thursday afternoon.

They are Carroll Pigg of Granite City, charged with theft of a 1963 station wagon from Austin Morgan on Dec. 3, and Elizabeth Dawson, charged with burglary at the home of Floyd Jordan, 200 Watson Ave., Mitchell, on Dec. 17.

In a probation revocation hearing, Isaiah Marchbanks, 22, of East St. Louis, was sentenced to one year on the state prison farm at Vandalia as a condition of two years of modified probation.

While on probation, he was arrested last Dec. 28 on a charge of theft of tires from boxcars, authorities said.

Strikes Parked Car

An auto driven by Gerald Masie, 317 W. Second St., Madison, backing from Circle Drive at the Viola Jones Apartments, Venice, struck the parked auto of Morris Scott, a tenant there, at 7:55 p.m. Thursday. Damage to the left rear and side of Scott's auto was reported.

Mehl said 450 students have been granted national defense student loans for this year totaling $257,000. In addition, 144 students have received educational opportunities grants totaling $56,474. Almost 1,200 students on campus are receiving Illinois state scholarships and grants and another 900 have tuition waivers. In two of the newer programs, 18 students have been granted federal nursing loans and scholarships valued at $3,368, and eight students have been granted Law Enforcement Education Program loans and scholarships totaling $4,500.

Number of Births in 1970 Continues Upward Trend

A rapid increase in the number of births in the Quad-Cities noted over the last five years continued during 1970 as 1,287 local births were recorded, compared to 917 in 1966. In addition, the number of deaths here in 1970 was the lowest since 1968.

An increase of 72 births over 1969 and 172 births over 1968 was recorded here. In 1967 the Quad-Cities recorded 936 births, 269 less than in 1970.

Months with the highest number of births in the Quad-Cities during 1970 were December, with 120 births; July, which had 119; September, in which 116 births were recorded; and October, with 114. The months with the lowest number of local births were November, August and April, with 92, 94 and 96, respectively.

While the birth rate here has been increasing rapidly, the local death rate has remained steady. For the past eight years the number of Quad-City deaths has been in the 400's. The 447 figure in 1970 was the lowest since 444 deaths were recorded during 1966. The highest number of deaths in the past five years was 479 in 1967, 1968 and 1969 recorded 449 and 468 deaths, respectively. Fetal deaths in the area decreased by three in 1970 from the 16 recorded in 1968. Merit System Has Helped America Advance

The merit system began displacing the infamous "spoils system" 88 years ago, with the signing of the Civil Service Act of Jan. 16, 1883, by President Arthur.

Today the Act of 1883 and the merit system still form the foundation for a modern personnel system covering close to 90% of the nearly 2.5 million federal employees in the United States. In 1883, only 10% of all federal jobs were under the merit system.

In the St. Louis metropolitan area, federal workers number around 35,000. Principal federal offices and installations in this area include the U. S. Army Aviation Systems Command, the Aeronautical Chart and Information Center and the U. S. Army Mobility Equipment Command.

The Darkest Days
During the 80 years prior to passage of the Civil Service Act, after each national election the President and his top officials were plagued by thousands of job seekers, and all regular Government activities came to a standstill until the claims of the "spoilsmen" were satisfied.

There was no stability in the federal work force to give continuity to Government priorities, and the appointees to government positions were frequently not qualified for their jobs.

After the election of President Garfield in 1880, Charles A. Guiteau was one of many job seekers who visited the White House daily to press his claims for a job. Guiteau was unsuccessful, and his desire for revenge led him to commit a terrible act. On July 2, 1881, he shot President Garfield in a Washington railroad station, and the president died two and a half months later.

Birth of the Merit System
The assassination of President Garfield shocked the American people, and their demands for civil service reform resulted in the passage of the Civil Service Act, 16 months after Garfield's death.

The Civil Service Act established the Civil Service Commission.

lished the basis for selecting employees as the result of open competition in practical examinations. This guarantees the selection of the best qualified people available for the public service.

The Act gave employees protection against political removals, demotions, and assessments, and it reaffirmed the veterans' preference provisions already on the statute books.

The Civil Service Act also established the administrative agency known as the Civil Service Commission. Initially, the functions of the commission were limited to accepting applications, determining qualifications, and setting up lists of eligibles. Over the years, these responsibilities have been increasingly supplemented by a broader concept to provide leadership in the development of an effective personnel program for the executive branch.

Today, the Commission sets standards and offers agencies guidance and assistance in all phases of government personnel administration including training, placement, promotion, transfer, grievance procedure, and labor relations.

Today's Career Service
In addition to providing modern efficient service to the public, civil servants are striving daily to find solutions to the social, economic, and environmental problems which affect our Nation's well being.

Government scientists are in the front ranks of those working to find cures for disease and modern diseases. Dr. Julius Axelrod—a United States civil servant—is among the three recipients of the 1970 Nobel Prize for his research in the field of biochemistry.

Dr. Axelrod's pioneering research in the chemistry of nerve transmission was pursued at the National Institute of Mental Health where he is chief of the pharmacology section.

Civil servants also have been in the forefront of America's space exploration program. On July 20, 1969, Neil Armstrong, spacecraft commander of Apollo 11, and a civil servant—became the first man to set foot on the moon.

Career men and women in the newly established Environmental Protection Agency will likewise be in the forefront of the national effort to control pollution.

Federal employees are responsible for scores of services that protect the public by insuring food and drugs are safe and pure and that products are honestly labeled and packaged. They control air traffic, regulate the weather, and regulate our railroads. Civil servants administer Social Security and veterans benefits, and they perform hundreds of other services required by the American people. Modern discoveries pioneered by government employees include the electronic computer, radar, drip-dry and stretch fabrics, frozen orange juice, and miniaturized electronic circuits.

Expanding Opportunities
The merit system has been strengthened over the years to meet changing needs. Recent improvements include the positive changes designed to assure women that they will receive equal consideration in filling government jobs.

At present, women are found in nine-tenths of all white collar occupations in the federal government. Geologist, nuclear engineer, customs inspector, and irrigation officer are only a few of the professional occupations held by women in government.

A Valuable Asset
President Nixon in a statement last year: "A competent federal career service is one of our most valuable assets. Career employees provide the skills, continuity and professional knowledge needed to carry out complex national programs and to perform essential governmental services."

For the EOST exercise, the main classroom area on the second floor of the civil defense center has been transformed into a working operations room. The room is equipped with the same equipment as the former downtown fire station.

Long tables situated in tandem are divided into specific work areas for each civil defense and city service. Each working section is equipped with a telephone connected for the special test with a "simulator" located in an adjacent room.

Huge maps, 10 feet high, surround the tables showing the bi-state metropolitan area. The maps show the city of St. Louis, the Missouri River, and the Mississippi River. The maps also show the city of St. Louis, the Missouri River, and the Mississippi River.

MORE ABOUT City Ready

This is impossible when people needed to make those decisions are scattered all over the city."

"The same situation exists whether we are talking about Washington, D. C., or here," Dr. Kennedy said. In an emergency situation, national officials move headquarters to the emergency operating center in our nation's capital, he added.

"Although still disputed by some, we believe the police chief, fire chief and mayor can provide better service to the community than being out on what you might call the front line," the Illinois University specialist stated.

Dr. Kennedy said, "The purpose of the EOST is to bring you information . . . to show how a central operations room can successfully function. We are not here to criticize you or grade you. The same EOST plan can be adapted for use at the state, region, county or city level."

The disaster training program was devised for the National Civil Defense Institute in Washington, D. C., by the Stanford Research consulting firm and developed from their research by the Systems Development Corporation. The same program has been presented at military installations and in large metropolitan areas, he explained.

This is impossible when people needed to make those decisions are scattered all over the city."

"The same situation exists whether we are talking about Washington, D. C., or here," Dr. Kennedy said. In an emergency situation, national officials move headquarters to the emergency operating center in our nation's capital, he added.

"Although still disputed by some, we believe the police chief, fire chief and mayor can provide better service to the community than being out on what you might call the front line," the Illinois University specialist stated.

Dr. Kennedy said, "The purpose of the EOST is to bring you information . . . to show how a central operations room can successfully function. We are not here to criticize you or grade you. The same EOST plan can be adapted for use at the state, region, county or city level."

The disaster training program was devised for the National Civil Defense Institute in Washington, D. C., by the Stanford Research consulting firm and developed from their research by the Systems Development Corporation. The same program has been presented at military installations and in large metropolitan areas, he explained.

In CD Center
For the EOST exercise, the main classroom area on the second floor of the civil defense center has been transformed into a working operations room. The room is equipped with the same equipment as the former downtown fire station.

Long tables situated in tandem are divided into specific work areas for each civil defense and city service. Each working section is equipped with a telephone connected for the special test with a "simulator" located in an adjacent room.

Huge maps, 10 feet high, surround the tables showing the bi-state metropolitan area. The maps show the city of St. Louis, the Missouri River, and the Mississippi River. The maps also show the city of St. Louis, the Missouri River, and the Mississippi River.

ocean going barges to the installation. The installation also lies only minutes from St. Louis, the second largest railroad center in the world.

"The Depot is bordered on its northern boundary by several thousand acres of government farm land suitable for future expansion without interfering with industrial development. In April the U. S. House Committee on Armed Services sent a Subcommittee to visit the installation and found the facility in first-class condition.

"However, of a more immediate nature will be the economic hardship that will result from the closure action. The vast majority of the over 700 employees of the Depot are too old to find employment in private enterprise but too young to retire. Most of these employees are also veterans including some 22 percent who are disabled veterans.

"In addition to the personal hardship the closure will bring to the employees and their families, the communities surrounding the Depot will lose a serious source of purchasing power. The Depot is located within the East St. Louis area which is already an economically depressed area.

"My office is in receipt of over 15,000 petitions from employees and communities involved, urging you to reconsider this action."

Cougars Visit Harris; 9-2 Due to Team Play

Coaches like to stress "team effort" as opposed to individual stars. Jim Dudley, the young head basketball coach of SIU-SW, is no exception. His surprising Cougars are romping along at a heady 9-2 clip and have area basketball fans buzzing.

Fans are talking about a possible post-season NCAA college division tournament bid if the amazing Cougars continue their winning ways. They visit Harris Teachers College in St. Louis tomorrow night.

Dudley, however, isn't having any of that kind of talk. He wasn't too pleased following his charges' convincing 96-70 victory over the University of Illinois, Chicago, Circle team Jan. 5.

Defense Improving Fast

"We won, but I wasn't satisfied," snapped Dudley. "We're still making too many mistakes," he said. "But our defense is coming along much faster than we'd thought it would."

Statistics in two victories back up the coach. On New Year's Day, the Cougars demolished the University of Tennessee, Martin, 103-76, on the losers' court. And, yet on Dec. 18, at home, SIU-SW could only manage an 85-75 victory over the Vols.

On Dec. 21, in the windy City, the Cougars, although leading comfortably throughout the game, barely managed to hold on to defeat the Chikas, 85-81.

The point guards in these ball games show the improvement in the SIU-SW defensive play.

Offense Consistent

On the other hand, the SIU-SW offense has also been impressive and fairly consistent.

In 11 games, Cougar shooters, led by Denny Thronburg's 20-point-per-game average and Rich Essington's 18-point clip, have been hitting at a 94.636 point average while holding their opponents to an 86.182 figure.

Thronburg, sophomore guard from Westfield, Ill., is making a real run at national recognition at the free throw line. He's been in the top ten in the nation for the past three weeks and now has hit on 63 of 69 shots at the charity line.

Much of the Cougars' improvement on defense is attributable to the work of their big men: 6-8 Gene Bounds, 6-7 Jim Brown, 6-4 John Nelson and 6-3 John "Champ" Summers.

With the exception of Summers, who is fast approaching his last season's shooting average, these larger players haven't been contributing substantially to the Cougars' offense. But, they're improving rapidly in scoring under the baskets and are probably the primary reason for the dramatic improvement on defense.

THE BALL IS UP FOR GRABS. Roy Witthoft and John "Champ" Summers, both of SIU-SW, left to right in white uniforms, contest for the ball under their home basket against three players from the University of Illinois Chicago Circle, SIU-SW won 96-70 to run its record to 9-2. Witthoft, a sophomore from Cobden, is the team's leading rebounder and Summers, a senior from Madison, is fast regaining his scoring form which made him the Cougars' leading point-maker last year. The Cougars' next game will be against Harris Teachers College at St. Louis Jan. 12 and they will return home Saturday, Jan. 16, to play the University of Missouri-St. Louis. Circle's two identifiable players are Pete Wontas at left and Ray Rimke, No. 21.

Miller Elected Inter-City Head

Ollie H. Miller, 2411 Madison Ave., was re-elected to a five-year term as president of the Southwestern Illinois Inter-City Basketball League during the League's regular meeting Sunday at the East Alton Recreation Center.

Dan Sheehan, 2434 Sheridan Ave., was elected vice-president while Henry Heuser, Troy, was named treasurer. Leroy Escher, O'Fallon, was re-elected secretary and statistician.

John "Laffey" Crnkovich, Madison, was elected to a five-year term on the arbitration board.

Eight teams have signed up to compete next season. Three were five teams remaining in the competition at the end of the season last year.

They were Mercer Mortuary the Maryville Red Sox, Mottor Motors, the East Alton Merchants, and Highland-Pierson. The Granite City Bellemeor team dropped out in the last half of the season.

New teams for this year include a second East Alton team, the Mitchell Athletic Club of Mitchell and the Troy Red Buds of Troy. There are still openings in the league and more teams are expected to enter, Miller said. Those interested should call 877-0881.

Designed by Coaches

"The clinic is designed by coaches for coaches," said Ed Velten. "In addition to detailing the plays and techniques that have welded their teams into football powerhouses, faculty members will be available to exchange thoughts on an individual basis throughout the clinic."

Headliners for the two-day sessions will be the A.F.C.A.'s "Coach of the Year" and the "Small College Coach of the Year." Featured speakers to appear at the St. Louis Clinic are: John Ralston, the Rose Bowl winning coach from Stanford plus members of his staff, Bob Blackman newly appointed head coach at the University of Illinois whose 1970 Dartmouth team won the Lambert Trophy for football supremacy in the nation, and Coach DeWayne White, winner of the Orange Bowl from Nebraska, perhaps the nation's number one collegiate team, plus The Small College clinic representative Ron Erhardt, of North Dakota State, and Coach Bill Welling, coach for 1969-70.

Local attractions for the clinic include speakers Prentice Gant, assistant football coach at the University of Missouri and former St. Louis Football Cardinal Star running back, and Paul Martel of St. Louis University High School, the coach of the Missouri 4A State High School Football champions.

There are Southern Illinois University alumni clubs located in 42 areas around the world.

Warriors Split, Trojans Win, Devils Lose

Mixed results were achieved by Quad-City high school varsity basketball teams during the weekend.

Madison and Venice played on the road Friday, the Trojans winning 72-61 at Triad (Troy-St. Jacob-Marine) and the Red Devils bowing 98-76 at St. Louis Vashon.

Granite City won at home Friday, 75-64 over Wood River, but was outdistanced 72-50 at Alton Saturday, the two games leaving the Warriors' Southwest Conference record at 3-3.

Joe Wallace, 6-0 junior guard, led the GCHS offense in the first half in Friday's win. He finished with 17 points while Mike DeRuntz hit the hoop consistently in the second half to earn game honors with 25 points. Terry Ripka scored 15 and Bob Wiggins and Chuck Kraus nine apiece.

Jerry Ringering tallied 23 for Wood River but his team trailed 19-12, 38-26 and 52-40 at the quarters. Granite City hit only 49% on 28 of 70 field goal attempts but led 34-20 in rebounds.

The Oilers were held to 22 goals. Wood River committed 18 fouls to the Warriors' 15 but led 20-13 in free throws, hitting 83% to 76%.

Ripka and Wiggins each had four fouls by the fourth quarter, aiding the Oilers rally. Coach Don Deterding said DeRuntz got 10 fourth-period points and key rebounds.

A Bit of Philosophy
The coach felt GCHS Ringering operate too freely in the third quarter but concluded philosophically, "I'd rather not look good and win than play a great game and lose."

"Alton outplayed us in all categories," Deterding said after the game.

er the Redbirds had attained 17-15, 32-29 and 50-41 quarter leads and poured in 22 points to the Warriors' nine in the fourth period.

"Ron Caldwell is a tremendous, all-around player. Between him and Center Jim Johnson (6-7), we couldn't stop them," Caldwell said.

Alton led in field goals 28-23, threw 16-4 and rebounds 38-26, shooting 52% from the field to 42%, by GCHS.

DeRuntz fouled out but was high point man with 17. Ripka had 12, Wallace seven, Kevin Dyer five, Wiggins four, Kraus three and John Ireland, two.

Close First Half
MHS, which had topped Triad 76-69 earlier in the year, had a tough fight before achieving its 11-point verdict Friday. Tied 18-18 after the first period, Madison led 37-25 at the half and 55-48 after the third quarter.

Douglas Griggs scored 19, Ed Chandler and Larry Boyd 14 each, Jerry Belford nine, Clinton Burkhal seven, Daryl Fletcher six and Terrence Young, three. Madison won with a 32-22 field goal edge and is now 3-0 in the Midwestern Conference.

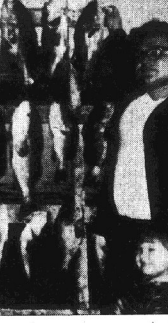

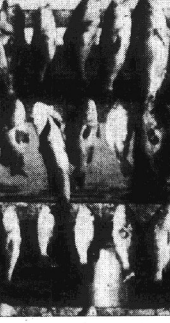

Vashon enjoyed 21-14, 52-28 and 75-49 quarter advantages before Venice jelled its attack in the late going. The hosts led 40-26 in the field goals to offset a 24-13 deficit on free throws. Guard Jim Clark led Vashon with 25 points.

"They dominated the backboards and beat us with their 3's—6-7, 6-6, 6-4, 6-3 and 6-2. Vashon has over 2300 students to our 225. It's a good experience for our club to play a school like Vashon, as long as it doesn't demoralize the team."

Cedric Gardner scored 30 points, Doug Johnson 19, Algie Smith 12, Ray Mobay nine, Jim Ohlendorf five and Rich Genterman, one.

Venice will begin play in the Dujo tournament at 7 p.m. Thursday. Madison will host Bethalto Friday and GCHS will entertain Belleville East Saturday.

13 Injured in 23 Weekend Accidents in Quad-Cities

Thirteen persons were injured, six of them in one accident, during a series of 23 weekend traffic mishaps in and near the Quad-Cities.

Six persons were injured and taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital at 11:02 p.m. Saturday, following an accident at Broadway and McKinley Street in Venice.

Venice police said a U. S. Army-owned vehicle, operated by Jesse A. Sanders, 22, of Airport Branch, Malden, Mo., struck the rear of a westbound auto driven by Marmon Wilson, 44, of 1301 Rhodes St., who was turning left from Broadway onto McKinley Street at the foot of Broadway viaduct.

Those injured were passengers in the Sanders' auto, most of whom are children of U. S. military personnel and reside in St. Louis. Treated at the local hospital were Debra Benson, 15, daughter of Mrs. Melvin Anderson, St. Louis, who sustained several small cuts to the forehead, had five sutures taken and underwent x-rays of the skull and spine.

Gerry Aboyne, 14, daughter of Mrs. Winifred Aboyne, St. Louis, who had abrasions to the left leg, complained of head pains and had x-rays of the facial bones, skull and left leg.

Bobbie Jean Adams, 14, daughter of James Adams, St. Louis, hematoma to head, contusions and pain in leg and hand were taken x-rays of the left shoulder.

Christine Denton, 16, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Denton, St. Louis, contusions to the right side of forehead and underwent skull x-rays, and Lattie Wallner, 15, daughter of Kenneth Wallner, St. Louis, who had bruises and abrasions to both legs and had x-rays taken.

Sanders also was reported taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment.

Driver Hurt Critically
A Venice man is in critical condition in the intensive care unit of Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, after his auto sideswiped a mail truck on the Street and Lincoln Avenue at 3 a.m. Friday, and crashed into the porch at the rear of Puert's Tavern, Fourth Street and Broadway, Venice, demolishing the car and part of the porch.

Claude Garrett, 22, of 411 Mercedia Ave., Venice was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital suffering apparent contusions and lacerations to the head, a laceration to his left hand and possible internal injuries. He was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital.

The car crashed into the concrete porch steps, tearing out two steps and a metal railing. It also tore out a four inch square post holding up part of the porch roof, causing it to sag. The car was demolished.

A two-car collision at the intersection of Madison Avenue and 20th Street at 4:10 p.m. Saturday, resulted in injuries to a passenger in one vehicle.

Treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital for nausea and head pain was Phillip Ramsey, 11, of 1918

Grand Ave., a passenger in an auto operated by Mrs. Bettie Ramsey, 28, of the Grand Avenue address.

The boy, who struck his head on the car window, underwent x-rays of the skull and spine and was released.

Police said Mrs. Ramsey was turning left onto Madison Avenue from 20th Street and collided with a vehicle operated by David B. Morse, 42, of 1411 Rhodes St. No other injuries were reported.

John Alex, Compton of St. Louis, the driver of an auto which struck the McKinley Bridge superstructure at 12:27 a.m. Sunday, sustained multiple lacerations and abrasions to the forehead and face and was transferred from St. Elizabeth Hospital to Homer G. Phillips Hospital, St. Louis.

Compton, 24, who was traveling east, hit the superstructure on the north side of the bridge. The police report stated, "He was taken by ambulance to the local hospital emergency room and transferred after treatment."

Boy Injured
John Michael Filkins, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Filkins, 411 East Chain of Rocks Road, Mitchell, was struck by an auto at 3:40 p.m. Friday while he was crossing East Chain of Rocks at Lenox Avenue.

Taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital, he was admitted for treatment of a fracture of the left leg.

Sheriff deputies said the east-bound motorist was John R. Higgins, 17, of 2615 Iowa St. George Hiava, 29, of 108 Madison Ave., Venice, was injured when the auto he was driving collided with the rear of an auto driven by Melvern Weber, Belleville, on Broadway at Market Street in Venice at 2:20 p.m. Thursday.

Police said Weber's auto stopped for a traffic sign and Hiava's car collided with the rear of it. Hiava received injuries to his lower lip and right index finger but declined hospital attention, police reported.

An auto operated by David G. Cridler, 112 Kinder Lane, was struck in the rear as the driver slowed to turn into Belleville Village shopping center parking area from Namekiki Road at 9:40 p.m. Friday, police said.

Howlett Only Officer Now In Third Consecutive Term

Michael J. Howlett during the weekend completed 10 years of service as Illinois Auditor of Public Accounts. He was inaugurated Jan. 9, 1961 with Gov. Otto Kerners, Lt. Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro, Secretary of State Charles Carpenter and Attorney General William G. Clark.

He is the only constitutional officer of Illinois state government now serving his third consecutive four-year term. Of the 238 constitutional officers who have served since 1818, only 11 others have served as long as Howlett in one office.

Howlett is the only Auditor in Illinois history ever elected with a Governor of the opposite political party.

Although state government has grown tremendously during the last 10 years, Howlett's office is doing more work with fewer personnel than just before he was elected. Illinois meanwhile has become recognized as the best audited of the 50 states in the union.

In the second half of October, 1960, the last semi-monthly payroll before Howlett was elected Auditor, there were 217 employees on the payroll of the Auditor of Public Accounts, according to the monthly statistical summary published by his predecessor.

Cut Office Payroll

A cost reduction program instituted by Auditor Howlett cut down the payroll to 172 employees by the middle of 1962, the fewest for many years.

Since then, new responsibilities have been added. An entire division of 10 Cemetery Care employees was transferred from the Department of Financial Institutions. An investigative division was launched in 1961. Many new services were added.

On Jan. 1, 1971, there were 196 employees. But the responsibilities that were handled by the 217 in October, 1960, were being handled, in greater volume, by only 182 on Jan. 1, 1971.

The other 14 jobs are involved in duties added to the office during Howlett's tenure.

Despite added responsibilities and heavier volume of work, the Auditor's staff actually has been reduced in size while the total personnel of state government expanded about 75 percent.

The workload of the Auditor's office has increased tremendously. The office workload has been increased by the growth of state government itself, 20 new services instituted by the Auditor and (3) new responsibilities given the Auditor's office by the legislature.

In the 1959-1961 biennium, which included the first six months of Howlett's administration, the Illinois legislature appropriated less than half a billion a year for all of state government.

$5-Billion Budget

In the current fiscal year, state government will spend about $5 billion. State government expenditures have more than tripled in the decade.

As a direct result of this growth, all of the Auditor's work of keeping track of the state government's money has expanded in volume.

In fiscal year 1961, for example, the Auditor's office wrote 4½ million checks. In fiscal 1970, with a smaller staff, the Auditor wrote more than seven million. But the increased volume of checks tells only part of the story. The Auditor not only writes more checks, he also does more work with individual checks.

When Howlett began his administration in 1961, for example, the only deductions from payroll checks were for federal income tax and state retirement fund payments.

Today, the Auditor, with authorization and consent of the employee, deducts also for state income tax, federal social security, insurance, savings bonds, United Fund, state employees' association dues and credit union payments.

In fiscal year 1961 there were 244,000 deductions from state pay warrants. In fiscal 1970, they were 8,444,944. In 1961, the Auditor had an employee for every 21,000 warrants written. In 1970, he only had one for every 35,000.

Operating Cost Cut

In 1961, the cost of writing a state warrant was 27.6 cents. In four years, the Auditor reduced the cost to 20.5 cents. Since then, in each biennium the legislature has increased salaries for state employees, data processing equipment rentals have increased due to lack of space in the State Capitol. These increases have raised the cost of the warrant-writing operation, but the unit cost is still lower than it was 10 years ago.

Salaries of the Auditor's employees, in step with all state employees, are up 80 percent in 10 years. Space lease rentals rose $5,000 a month.

But the average cost of writing a warrant, as of the end of the fiscal year 1970, was still only 27 cents—six-tenths of a cent lower than in 1961.

On his own initiative, the Auditor has begun new services to safeguard and conserve the taxpayers' money. In April, 1961, three months after he took office, he began encoding state checks with magnetic ink. This facilitates a handling of the checks by the Federal Reserve Bank and various banks and clearing houses that handle them.

A few months later, he announced a new policy under which all elected state officials are required to itemize their expense accounts. Previously, some had submitted expense accounts in lump sums, without itemized explanation. All accounts now itemize transportation, lodging, meals, incidentals, and report the destination of travel.

In his first term, Howlett organized a new division of investigators to check against irregularities in state government financial transactions. As a routine measure, investigators physically observe distribution of thousands of pay checks periodically to employees.

In cooperation with postal authorities and police, the Auditor's investigators have crushed schemes to alter state checks.

In 1965, a check, seeming to order payment of $235 to the order of a George Boethe, was challenged when presented to the state Treasurer for collection. The name of the original payee, and the original amount, had been eradicated by chemical action and a fictitious payee and amount typed in.

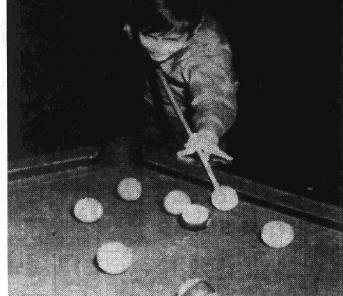

The check was then used to open an account in a savings and loan association by a depositor using the fictitious name and false credentials. The depositor left $25 in the account and took off with the remaining $210.

Depositor Indicted

Evidence was gathered identifying the fraudulent depositor as a Thomas Hunt, who was indicted for possession of an other state check and several stolen government checks. He was sentenced to five years in the federal penitentiary.

As a result of the Hunt case, Auditor Howlett changed the ink and paper stock used in state checks to make alteration more difficult. In another case, Auditor's investigators broke up a counterfeiting venture, involving blank checks stolen from the Auditor's supplier.

With help of city and state police, the Auditor's investigators gathered evidence against three men who subsequently were sentenced to 3 to 4½ years in prison.

Meanwhile, the Auditor changed suppliers, with a security clause in the new contract to protect the state from handling of blank checks by irresponsible persons. During the 10 years of Howlett's administration not one dime has been lost to the taxpayers through check alteration or attempted counterfeiting.

In other investigations, the Auditor's field men (1) made a study of public aid payments to doctors and druggists which led to a complete review of the medical program for assistance recipients in cooperation with the Illinois Medical Society, and (2) found inadequate records of personnel allowances for relief patients in nursing homes, which resulted in new insistence by the Department of Public Health that the institutions improve their bookkeeping.

In 1963, responsibility for supervising perpetual care funds held by privately operated cemeteries was transferred to the Auditor from the Department of Financial Institutions by the legislature. During the Auditor's administration, the Funeral and Burial funds law was found constitutional and made operative. This law gives the Auditor responsibility to license trustees of funeral or burial trust funds and see that they are properly bonded.

The Auditors has consolidated the cemetery care and burial trust work under the same staff members, to save personnel costs.

In 1963, the General Assembly enacted a new County Auditor Law, and assigned responsibility for its administration to the Auditor. This law requires 87 counties with a population of more than 10,000 but fewer than 500,000 to be audited periodically by licensed professional accountants.

Campaigned for Bill

This new legislation was inspired by Howlett, who campaigned for it in speeches throughout Illinois. It grew out of his experience in administering the Municipal Audit Law, enacted in 1951, which requires cities and villages to be audited professionally. After passage of the County Auditing Law, the Auditor continued to crusade for lighter auditing of local government bodies.

In 1965 the Auditor was given responsibility by the legislature for reimbursing county treasurers for salaries paid to assistant state's attorneys in counties where state mental health or penal institutions are located.

In 1969, another law authorized the Auditor to reimburse their assistant state's attorneys in counties where state senior institutions of higher learning are located. Since July 1, 1966, the Auditor's office has reimbursed county treasurers for a portion of probation officers' salaries. The state now pays half the salaries of qualified full-time probation officers up to a maximum of $300 per month per employee.

Throughout his administration, Howlett has made available to newspapers and all other responsible authorities any information in his possession about his own office and about state government generally. He has enforced the people's "right to know."

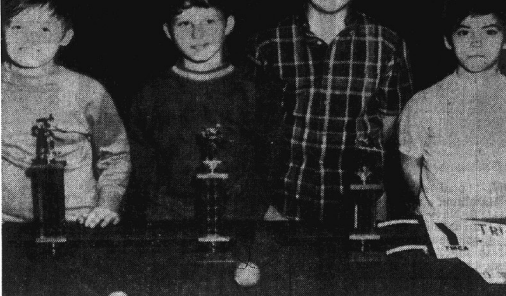

He has installed microfilm reader-printers which make it possible to find and copy within seconds the information on checks and supporting vouchers. Every check and every voucher is a public document. Two new microfiche viewers have been installed to speed up location of desired documents. Records formerly stored in 10 different locations have been gathered into one place, the new Records Control Center at 125 E. Adams, Springfield.

More than seven million cancelled checks a year are recorded in the center, along with vouchers and other supporting documents. About 115,000 documents are removed from the files for inspection in a year, and 25,000 photostatic copies are made.

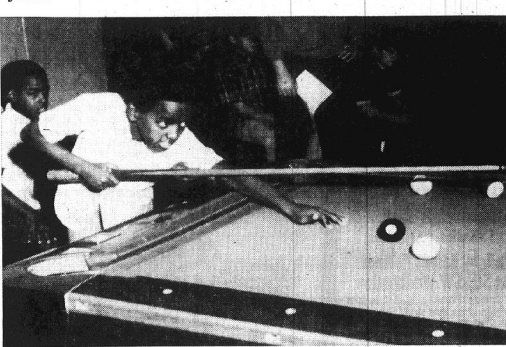

Release Government Reports

Auditor Howlett publishes statewide summaries of revenue and expenditures of local governments. They are compiled from audit reports filed by the local bodies under the mandatory auditing laws. They are useful mostly for officers, trustees and finance directors of the local governments, and can compare their own services and programs with those of similar bodies of the same size elsewhere in Illinois.

On Jan. 4, this year, the Auditor began writing state checks with new "third generation" Associates, Inc., who was Howlett's opponent in the 1964 election. The new system will do more work and at a lower cost to the taxpayers. Gradually, the work force will shrink again from its present level. The new equipment writes warrants four times as fast as the old. Service will be better and faster.

A Data Processing Management Study Committee of seven members appointed by the Auditor has been surveying the office to find how it can provide even better service at more savings. Two former Governors—William G. Stratton and Samuel H. Shapiro—are members of the committee. The chairman is John Kirby, president of Educational Planning

Local Servicemen Hold Reunion in Vietnam

A reunion at Cam Rahn Bay, Vietnam, was enjoyed two weeks ago by two local servicemen who spent several days together catching up on the latest news from home.

The get-together was initiated by Army Specialist Four Russell W. Hamilton, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Hamilton, 468 Highway 162, who paid a surprise visit Dec. 28 to his fiancée's cousin, Roger W. MacZura, ADJ-2, stationed with the U. S. Navy at Cam Rahn Bay.

Spec. 4 Hamilton is engaged to Miss Kathy Kibort, 3341 Colgate Ave. The soldier has been stationed at Phan Thiet, Vietnam, since last July. A flight engineer on a Navy P-34 Orion anti-submarine aircraft, ADJ. MacZura arrived at the Cam Rahn Bay Navy field in October. His current assignment is the local man's third tour of duty in Southeast Asia.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren MacZura, 3308 Aubrey Ave., the Navy airman expects to leave the service in April. A party was given at the air base in honor of the visiting soldier, local relatives reported.

Teachers' Local 743 Sues, Cites Pay Agreement

Granite City Local 743, American Federation of Teachers, filed suit against the school district today, seeking a declaratory judgment from the circuit court in Edwardsville. It requests a $500 annual pay boost for 1970-71, totaling $684,457, instead of $300 per teacher or $404,577.

The suit by Attorney Burton C. Bernard, representing President Richard P. Huff and Local 743, notes that the second half of a July 1968-June 1971 agreement provided for extra pay raises if the General Assembly increased state tax aid to schools in a spring 1970 special session, which occurred.

The local says the agreement made no qualification in apportioning the extra funds for teacher pay, but the school system has offered to apply only a portion of the increase to faculty salaries.

St. John Guild Holds Meeting

The Afternoon Guild of St. John United Church of Christ met Thursday at the Church on Nanticoke Road.

The morning was devoted to sewing for the Hitz Home in Alhambra, and a 12 o'clock dessert luncheon was served by Mrs. Emma Branding and her committee.

A Bible quiz was conducted and the business meeting followed. Mrs. Marie Wille led the devotional service, the topic of which was "The Trusting Way of Love," and Mrs. Marie Wille, president, conducted the meeting.

Plans were made for the February meeting when there will be a pot luck dinner and the "golden age" members will be honored. All members are requested to bring baby clothing and materials for clothing as a donation to World Service. Letters of thanks were read from two servicemen in Vietnam for ditty bags received from the Guild, and 31 members took part in the service of the Least Coin, and the hymn and the Lord's Prayer with which the meeting closed.

Farm Column

By WARREN W. BUNDY
Madison County
Extension Adviser

The Agricultural Act of 1970 signed into law by President Nixon on Nov. 30 will be the basis of farm policy the next three years.

County ASCS officials and Extension Advisers heard state ASCS officials explain details of the Act at a district meeting in Vandalia last week. All Madison county farmers will want to know the provisions of the Act.

Participation in the program is voluntary. To participate, a farmer needs to do these things: File with the county ASCS office his intentions to participate, "set-aside" the required acreage to a conserving use, and maintain the farm's conserving base.

Farm payments will be made for 50 percent of the feed grain base and the full wheat allotment. The entire production of the program crop will be eligible for a loan.

Farmers may comply in either the wheat program or the feed grain program, or both. Farm yields will be established for program purposes to determine per acre payments.

Set-Aside Acreage
"Set-aside" acres will be a percentage of the farm's domestic wheat allotment under the wheat program, or a percentage of the feed grain base under the feed grain part of the program. Set-aside acreage must be cropland which normally would be expected to produce a crop for harvest within the three preceding years.

"Domestic wheat allotment" is a new term. The domestic wheat allotment for a given farm will be about 45 to 46 percent of last year's wheat allotment for that farm and will reflect the amount of total wheat used domestically for which certificates will be issued to participants. Farmers should note that the notice they receive of their domestic wheat allotment will represent a 55 to 60 percent reduction from last year's wheat allotment.

One feature of the new program is that it gives farmers who participate in the program more flexibility in crops grown. The new set-aside program will allow the farmer to plant whatever crop he wishes on his remaining cropland acres after idling the required acreage.

Corn and grain sorghum (milo) are considered feed grains under the feed grain part of the program. One point is emphasized in regard to maintaining the future feed grain base and wheat allotment for each farm. Regardless of whether a farm is signed up in the program, a certain number of acres of wheat or feed grain must be planted to avoid a reduction and eventual elimination of the farm's base or allotment. Nonparticipants will be requested to report crop acreages. All farmers should learn the details of this provision.

There will be no cross compliance between farms in the new program. The above is not a complete list of all provisions of the new farm program. It is intended only to be an introduction to some of the major provisions. County ASCS officials can provide more information.

Guide Explains Rules
You can get a free copy of the 1971 edition of the farmers' tax guide at the county Extension office, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville.

The 48-page guide prepared by the Internal Revenue Service explains tax rules of importance to farmers. Examples show how the rules apply to actual farming situations.

Many farmers do not attempt to learn all the income tax regulations. They learn only enough to help them to make good tax management decisions, and they hire professional help to file their income tax returns.

Thirty-five attorneys, accountants, and private tax practitioners in Madison county recently attended a two-day farm income school to receive the latest farm income tax information.

A good tax specialist should fill out your tax forms and keep tax records on file from year to year. He should also keep you up-to-date on new tax laws and rulings as well as on new ideas for tax planning and savings. A fee of $50 or more is not unreasonable for this complete service.

Child Born Before End of 1970 Is Tax Dependent for Entire Year

(Internal Revenue Service)

Q) Can a child born before the end of the year be claimed as a dependent for the whole year?

A) Yes, as long as the dependent's income is met for the balance of the tax year in which the child was born.

Q) I didn't have a job when I moved here. Does that mean I won't be able to deduct my moving costs?

A) You may be able to deduct your moving expenses if you meet certain requirements. In fact, anyone moving to accept a new job at a new location may deduct his moving expenses if you meet certain requirements.

The first requirement is that your new place of employment be at least 80 miles farther from your old home than your previous job was.

The second requirement is that you be a full-time employee on your new job for at least 39 weeks during the 12 months following the move.

For details, send a postcard to your IRS district office and ask for a copy of Publication 529, Tax Information on Moving Expenses.

Q) I didn't pay any estimated tax and now I'm worried. What should I do?

A) File an estimated tax declaration, Form 1040ES, as soon as possible. Keep in mind that taxpayers out of the country April 15 have an automatic extension until June 15 to file their returns.

For additional information, send a postcard to your District Director and ask for a copy of Publication 54, Tax Guide for U.S. Citizens Abroad.

Q) What's the deadline for last will and testament ranks as the favorite legal subject?

(Tri-City and Illinois Bar Associations)

What facet of the law holds the most interest and fascination for the average person?

If your answer to that question is "wills" you are correct. The greatest number of inquiries the State Bar Association receives from you readers have to do with various aspects of estate and probate law.

The idea of a will apparently got started about 3000 B.C. Egyptian documents of that date have provisions for the disposal of property after the owner's death.

And under Hammurabi, king of Babylon in 1800 B.C., a father could disinherit his son for good cause, by proof, before a court of law.

There is no question that an inheritance meant a lot even in those days. The Old Testament talks about an inheritance as the blessing of the Almighty.

"Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord; and the people whom he hath chosen for his inheritance," the Bible says.

And everyone knows the story about the young man who asked Jesus to "speak to my brother that he may divide his inheritance with me."

The Romans get the credit for developing the idea of handing down property to a point that included a kind of living trust.

A sonnet, Patrician, of the property-owning upper class, could go before a council known as the "Comitia Calata" and make an absolute gift of his property to an "heir," with the understanding that the heir would not try to claim it until after the owner's death.

The right of the Roman to make bequests, however, was restricted to regular family succession. He could make bequests of his property if no one in his clan survived him, or if living members of the clan waived their rights.

To the tardiness of one to the up and up, each member of the clan had a representative on the Comitia Calata.

Later, the Romans began putting their wills into writing. The will had to be made in the presence of seven witnesses instead of being announced publicly, and the contents could be kept secret.

Up to the fall of Rome, the feudal law took over the matter of wills. It decreed that the property of a noble could inherit real property.

During the Middle Ages, priests usually drafted the wills because few people could read or write.

In 1170, Pope Alexander III decreed that a will could be made by a layman in the presence of a priest. The church also had jurisdiction over the probate of wills of personal property.

Gradually, the Roman idea of wills, which the priests had been using for centuries, was extended to real property.

In 1533, Henry VIII forced Parliament to adopt the "Statute of Uses," which again prevented wills of land. But the king soon yielded to pressure from landowners and the Statute of Wills, passed in 1546, restored their right to make wills.

The Romans get the credit for developing the idea of handing down property to a point that included a kind of living trust.

Former Mayor Jennings to Retire

JANUARY 11, 1946

Arthur M. Jennings, who has covered news for the Press-Record in Madison, Venice and Nantux for the last ten years, is retiring to his 92-acre farm in Missouri, about 150 miles from here. Former alderman and mayor of Granite City, he has been a resident of Granite City since the turn of the century, working most of the years prior to 1935 at Granite City Steel Co.

At the Rialto Theatre, "Harvest Moon," with Ann Sheridan, Dennis Morgan and Jack Carson; "I'll Sell My Life," with Rose Hobart and Michael Whalen; and "The Three Caballeros," a Walt Disney feature.

Mrs. Pauline Bone of Venice received a telephone call from her son, Oscar, who had just arrived at Camp Grant, Ill. He is to be discharged and expects to arrive home soon.

Less than 200 voters went to the polls in the Madison School District and approved an increase in the school tax rate of 50 cents on $100 assessed valuation.

Venice School District residents voted favorably in light balloting on a 60 1/2-cent tax rate increase.

sired by residents and taxpayers. And establishment of the office could lead to more orderly and effective administration of governmental services.

A city would not attempt to function without a mayor, a state without a governor, or the nation without a president. The same reasoning strongly suggests that Madison County have a single official who could provide leadership and coordination of the diverse functions.

Another provision of the 1970 State Constitution relates that "each county shall elect a sheriff, county clerk and treasurer—and may elect or appoint a coroner, recorder, assessor, auditor and such other officers as may be provided by law or by county ordinance. Any officer may be created or eliminated and the terms of office and manner of selection changed by county-wide referendum."

Officers other than sheriff, county clerk and treasurer may be eliminated and the terms of office and manner of selection changed by law. Officers other than sheriff, county clerk, treasurer, coroner, recorder, assessor and auditor may be eliminated and the terms of office and manner of selection changed by county ordinance.

The county treasurer or the person designated to perform his functions may act as treasurer of any unit of local government and any school district in his county when requested by the board of directors of the district and shall so act when required to do so by law.

A previous prohibition, that the sheriff and treasurer cannot succeed themselves, is omitted from the new constitution. This suggests exploration, to determine whether implementation would be advisable. A good time for such exploration would be the period between now and the effective date of the constitution, July 1, 1971.

The bird watchers make special note of the European tree sparrow, found only in this metropolitan area; 18 were seen.

Also recorded were cardinals, 80; mallards, 75; ring-billed gulls, 10; crows, 44; bluejays, 37; mourning doves, 30; mockingbirds and rock doves, 24 each; meadowlarks, 16; horned larks, 15; black-capped chickadees, 12; flickers, nine; red-heads, seven; downy woodpeckers, seven; hairy woodpeckers, seven; red-bellied woodpeckers, five each; tufted titmousses, Carolina wrens and red-tailed hawks, four each; downy woodpeckers, three; and last, but far from least, a blue wing teal, yellow-bellied sapsucker and a Carolina chickadee.

Everything, in fact, but "... a partridge in a pear tree."

Remember W. C. Fields' 'Little Chickadee'? She's Alive, Well, Roosting in This County

We are impressed by the endurance, dedication and visual acuity of members of the Southwest Chapter of the Illinois Audubon Society. Their members have just completed an annual bird census, covering a 15-mile circle, from Collinsville southward.

More than a quarter-million birds of 37 species were sighted, the list being dominated by an estimated 100,000 common grackles, an equal number of starlings and 50,000 redwing blackbirds, not to mention numerous house sparrows and 63 state-colored juncos.

Observations indicate that up to a half-million blackbirds of different varieties use the Madison-St. Clair Counties area as a winter roosting site. And several species usually considered to be migratory also are steady winter residents here; among this category are robins (37 seen during the census) and American goldfinches (seven).

Also recorded were cardinals, 80; mallards, 75; ring-billed gulls, 10; crows, 44; bluejays, 37; mourning doves, 30; mockingbirds and rock doves, 24 each; meadowlarks, 16; horned larks, 15; black-capped chickadees, 12; flickers, nine; red-heads, seven; downy woodpeckers, seven; hairy woodpeckers, seven; red-bellied woodpeckers, five each; tufted titmousses, Carolina wrens and red-tailed hawks, four each; downy woodpeckers, three; and last, but far from least, a blue wing teal, yellow-bellied sapsucker and a Carolina chickadee.

Massive Program to Discover and Eliminate Causes of Birth Defects

To the Editor: "Tree of Lights" program this year.

Today, about a quarter of a million American babies are born each year with a major physical defect. Some die, some live.

Our scientific advisors assure us that much can be done to prevent birth defects.

By assuming the responsibilities of leadership by careful planning of the broad strategy of the campaign to prevent congenital disease, the Madison County Board of Health, with the participation of dedicated physicians, scientists and volunteer laymen has focused scientific and public attention on the problem.

This is the first crucial step, but only the first. March of Dimes research is now searching out the secrets of genetics and environmental diseases that cut short or gravely impair the lives of thousands of babies.

As ways to prevent birth defects are found, The National Foundation goes into action to make them known throughout the world.

The Foundation also undertakes to spread the word to the public, for without an informed citizenry, scientific research is not supported as vigorously as it should be.

Our goal is to give every one of those future babies his birthright: the right to a healthy vigorous start in life. With the public's help, we will reach our goal.

ISOLATED EATING

"Isolated eating" is the expression for a trend in America that is increasing by leaps and bounds. It means members of the family eat having breakfast on their own—perhaps grabbing whatever is available. Or father picking up a sweet roll and coffee in a paper cup as he boards the commuter train.

It can include kids frequenting vending machines at school for a snack instead of breakfast at home. It can mean mother having breakfast by herself after everyone else is off for the day.

Evening meals, too. But most of all I sense that even family evening meals increasingly are being foregone. Children may eat after school instead of later. Mother's evening dinner may be delayed by the timing of something on television. Father often eats dinner alone, much later when he finally gets home.

So much we swirl these days. Only on weekends, and sometimes not even then, do some families sit down together for a meal and, hopefully, for enjoyable family conversation.

Grandfather Clocks Made By GC Man Works of Art

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

An old song, begins:

"My grandfather clock was too large for the shelf, so it stood 90 years on the floor."

Granite City resident G. E. Massie has four grandfather clocks on the floor of his home, but they won't stand there long.

Mr. Massie, 70, makes grandfather clocks as a hobby, and sells them faster than he can make them. His clocks are, indeed, too large for the shelf, as they average seven feet tall and 20 inches in width.

The clock works are imported from Germany, but Mr. Massie manufactures the cases with the skill of a master craftsman, devoting about 10 hours per day for about one month on each clock.

New Year's Eve was rung in style at the stroke of midnight as a symphony of Westminster, Weddington and St.

Michaels chimed rang through the house at 14 Terrace Lane.

Worked as Machinist

He retired in 1962 as a machinist at Shell Oil Co. in Wood River, but he has always loved to work with wood. Mr. Massie relates. Before the depression he was a cabinet maker and general contractor in Detroit where he worked on housing construction jobs.

Since moving here he has built seven homes in Granite City, including his own. Most of them were built in his spare time while he was working for Shell.

The house is filled with cabinets, hutches and chairs that Mr. Massie has built, but he is most proud of his clocks.

He took up the hobby when a friend, former Granite City resident Marcellis Bradford, imported a set of clock works from Germany and told Mr. Massie that he was going to build a grandfather clock. In the end Bradford was too busy and Massie ended up building the cabinet. "It was kind of a challenge at the start," he said.

Each a Challenge

Since, he has continued to challenge himself by building more detailed and more elaborate clocks. His proudest undertaking was the building of a reproduction of the famous grandfather clocks built by English clockmaker Simon Willard between 1780 and 1800.

The finished product stands over seven feet high and features elaborate woodwork and solid brass spires. It stands in a place of prominence in the Massie home.

It features all three kinds of famous chimed and can easily be set on whichever chime is desired. The works include a moving moon and an ornate clock face. The cabinet was constructed of solid walnut and Mr. Massie has hand rubbed the finish to a brilliant sheen.

Since beginning his hobby, the clockmaker has built about 20 grandfather and grandmother clocks. He sells the clocks to friends at a cost of between $400 and $800. He delivers the clocks himself and sets them up because, in his words, "it isn't everyone who knows how to handle them."

One to Detroit

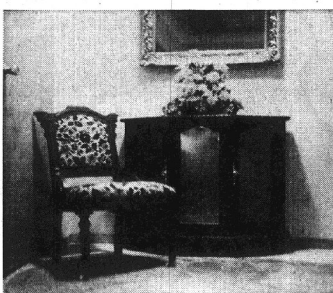

Last year he delivered one to a friend in Detroit. Other clocks are located throughout the Midwest. One stands in the lounge of the Idlewild Resort on the Merrimac River near St. James, Mo., and there are four others in that state. He also has a friend in Massesville, Ohio, who owns one of his clocks.

He said that whenever a friend has trouble with a clock he travels there to repair it, but that has not been necessary very often. "They're very dependable . . . not a lemon out of all I've made," he said.

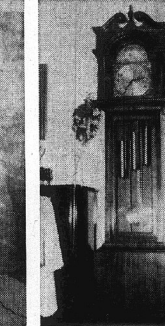

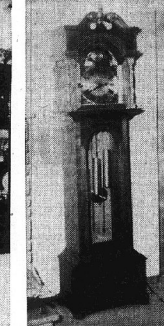

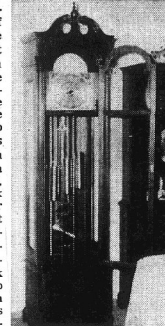

Mr. and Mrs. Massie have just celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary and hope the chimed of the grandfather clock will continue to mark many more happy new years for them.

National Secretaries Inspect Equipment, Hold Business Meet

Members of the Tri-Cities Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (Inter.), and guests were shown the latest in typewriters and dictating equipment at a dinner meeting Thursday evening at the Rose Bowl restaurant. Guest speakers were IBM representatives Laurent Ferrero, Odell Register, and David Lake, who demonstrated the equipment to the secretaries.

One of the main points of interest was the Magnetic Card Electric Typewriter, which enables a letter to be typed at a very fast speed; and when error is made, the secretary need only type in the correct letter and it will appear that way in the final version of the letter. The letter is typed on a magnetic card, and this card is then used in the typewriter to produce the letter as many times as desired.

A one-page letter can be typed automatically by the machine in less than two minutes. The machine can also automatically adjust the right hand margin to be flush. This equipment is of special value to companies where many letters are written and speed and economy are the uppermost items of importance.

Guests present at the meeting included Mrs. Rosemary Drew, secretary to W. A. Gray, General Steel Industries Inc., and Mrs. Lois Ferrero, secretary to Joe Hassler, State Farm Insurance Agency.

President Bernice DeRousseau called the business meeting to

Pair Arrested After Shooting Incident

A shooting incident in the Kirkpatrick Homes housing complex at 9:45 p.m. Friday, resulted in arrest of the pair who remain in custody pending investigation by St. Charles police officials and other law enforcement authorities.

Arrested in a grocery store parking lot, opposite Kirkpatrick Homes, were Sharon Gay Howland, 26, of 2811 North St., and John Nishke, 30, of 1661 Fourth St., Madison.

The Howland woman was charged with disorderly conduct and having no firearm owner's identification card.

Nishke was booked on charges of aggravated assault, unlawful use of weapon, without a firearm owner's identification card, improper display of state license and no valid operator's license.

Police said after shots were fired and officers summoned, the pair saw the squad car approaching and ran to their auto. The officers halted the car in Kozak's Market parking lot and Nishke was apprehended. The woman, who disappeared into a nearby restaurant, also was taken into custody.

A gun was found in the restaurant and an investigation is continuing to determine the origin of the weapon, police said.

Engineers Reject UE Offer Again

Operating Engineers Union Local 148 has rejected for the second time a proposed contract offer that would have ended a six-week strike against Union Electric Co.

Members of the union voted down the new contract proposal by a 15 to 1 margin in voting at union meetings last Wednesday and Thursday and tabulated late Thursday night. The union also rejected a proposed agreement in a vote last month.

A union spokesman said the rejection was based primarily on the company's refusal to lift disciplinary action against three employees of the Cahokia plant.

Approximately 1,350 members of the union are striking at nine utility plants, with about 550 of them at the Cahokia and Venice plants. In addition, about 3,000 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, also employees at the Union Electric plants, have been honoring picket lines and staying off their jobs. Supervisory employees have been maintaining production.

Freight shipments through the Chain of Rocks locks and canal during 1970 set a new record for the 17-year-old facility as more than 50 million tons passed through the canal, an increase of five million tons more than last year.

A total of 50,747,918 tons of freight was locked through the canal in 1970, compared to the previous record of 46,364,433 tons set in 1969. Shipments through the canal have more than doubled in the last decade from 22,942,101 tons in 1960.

With the exception of 1968, each year's total has continued to set a new record. The tonnage shipped through the locks dropped from 43,243,645 in 1967 to 43,072,743 in 1968. Since Jan. 1, 1969 nearly 400-million tons of freight have been shipped through the canal.

The total number of vessels passing through the locks during 1970 also rose above 1969, with 63,541, compared to 61,334. Total 1970 lockages were only slightly above the 1969 figure with 11,353 in 1970 and 11,003 in 1969.

Thomas R. Sullivan of Poplar Bluff, Mo., owner of a house at 1829 Edwardsville Road, Madison, reported at 12:10 p.m. Saturday that his property had been damaged by a former tenant, who also allegedly removed items from the five-room apartment.

Sullivan told police he had ordered the occupant to move out last week for nonpayment of rent. When he inspected the dwelling, Sullivan said, he found the floor covering burnt, window shades torn down and a gas line connection to the kitchen stove broken.

Several sets of draperies and curtain rod fixtures also were missing from the apartment, the owner said. He estimated $130 loss from damage and theft and agreed to file charges against the former tenant when located.

About This Question:

"I read that a woman was paid $8800 for injuries sustained in a fall on an icy walk. I learned that owners of business properties or private residences - all may be liable for injuries on their premises. Does personal or public liability insurance cost the owner only a few pennies per day?"
